Customer Reviews

I really liked all five of the books in this collection, but my favorite would have to be "A Winning Recipe..." because I was fascinated by the concept that anyone would consider meatloaf a subject of substance upon which to write a love story! But my hat is off to Bonnie Engstrom for this one. And then there is the "Heartland Illusions" by Helen Gray. I never considered ventriloquism an element fit for love story spinning either. But Ms Gray delighted and entertained me with this one. All five of these books were a bargain in collection. I am so glad I bought them.

I really enjoyed reading these books. I first thought that they were wedding tales but not so. They were relationship tales. The story lines were interesting and kept me involved. I didn't realize when I purchased that they were all Christian based so that was a very nice refreshing addition to the tales. Definitely a feel good read.

The first 3 or 4 books were so good I could not put them down. Great buy for just a dollar.

Excellent story and many creative twists and turns in the story. Characters and situations were very realistic and believable .

Hope for the journey to find love and marriage. Sometimes the road curves but these stories build a strong case for true love. Cures the doldrums!

What a beautiful story I just loved the way their romance developed victory over being in control and starting to appreciate Lance

I just finished the last one and enjoyed them all. Had me reading late into the night and consider them good entertainment.

Loved this! Contemporary romance at its best. Thanks for a great read!
